

LEAN WRITING

Rewrite the following sentences in your own words, stating the ideas as plainly as possible.

Example: In the estimation of onlookers and friends, the dog, already short-legged and tired, was in desperate need of a trip to the Doggie Stylist as he was to look good for his obedience school graduation. The dog was in need of a haircut.

1. The film, as it stands, seems to revolve around the concept that beauty, in whatever derivation, consists of many dimensional attributes.

2. I would like to apply, in person, for a job in the field of dishwashing.

3. If a student fails to attend the class for which he or she is enrolled, it may have a negative impact on the grade they finally receive.

4. The popularity of the toy that was quickly selling out was watched by many, but, inevitably, it was a short-lived fame.

5. The purpose of this essay is to show, in no uncertain terms, and with clarity and concision, the function, in a variety of situations, of each of several eating utensils in a formal dining setting.
